FAST AND FURIOUS.

The Montreal Star publishes the following interesting letter from a Canadian lady who has resided in Port Arthur for several years, and was there during the attack, which marked the commencement of the war.

Her letter is dated Shanghai, February 14, and is in part as follows:—
 "A week ago Sunday the Japanese sent transports to take away the Japanese residents, but we never believed trouble was so near, nor did the Russian officers. On Monday we knew that war was certain and spent the whole day packing our things. Luckily the ship could not get that night. At 11:30 p.m. we heard a lot of cannon firing but supposed it to be the Russians trying their forts. We finished packing about 2 a.m. and got to bed. At ten a.m. Tuesday we all started for the ship (Fu Ping) where we met people who told us the Japanese had really been there the night before."

"It happened this way. The Russian fleet was lying just outside the harbor. Some war vessels came along from the direction of Dalny. They signalled the Russian fleet: 'We are from Dalny,' this being done in Russian signals. Naturally the Russians thought they were some of their own ships and when they got near and inside the guard ships they called out in perfect Russian: 'What is the news of war?' and joked a bit, then the nasty, sneaky little Japanese sent the torpedoes going right and left and then ran away. They badly disabled three of the Russian ships, the Pallada, Rostk and Carewichev. The Pallada was damaged, but the other two are too large for the docks. You see it was some little time before the Russians began firing. There were not as many Russian officers in the forts as there ought to have been, and the navy officers were nearly all at a party."

"We went to our ship, which expected to sail every moment, but the Russians gave orders that the ship should not sail that morning. About 11:30 the Japanese came back and the fight began fast and furious, shells falling on all sides, so we decided the best place for us was our own house, as the steamer was crowded and if a shell struck her she would probably sink."

"We got back all right from the ship, but a boy rushed in and told us the ship was about to go. We went back and waited all the afternoon. The firing stopped at twelve o'clock. This time the Russians being ready, gave the Japanese all they wanted. The ship, was not allowed to go that night, but the captain said to come back in the morning."

"Before returning to the house we took a look around the town. It was a most desolate looking place, hardly any one stirring, all business places closed, the windows all smashed, carriages scattered everywhere and smashed where a big shell had burst."

"We went to the port and a torpedo boat came in with a lot of wounded sailors, a great number on stretchers, some in blankets and others with their heads all done up. It was an awful sight."

"That night the street lights were turned off and the order was given for the house lights to be turned as low as possible so as not to light the sky or give a reflection."

"The following day, Mr. Adams, a passenger, who was on his way to Manila, rushed in and said the boat would leave at three o'clock sharp."

"We were just going out of the harbor, when bang went three shots into the bow of our boat. The captain stopped immediately. Five Chinese passengers were badly wounded and the ship caught fire a little, which was quickly put out."

"The Wenchow, another English boat, had tried to go out earlier and had been stopped, the order being if a ship goes out or comes in without first obtaining permission, the guard ship fires on her."

"The captain naturally got very angry, not knowing the reason, and started to abuse the Russians. We had to wait for a time till things were fixed up, but finally got away all right."

"We stopped at Wei Hai Wei. The ship was simply besieged with reporters and the stories some of the passengers and the captain himself told would simply make your hair stand on end. I think each one tried to see who could tell the biggest yarn."

MAY START A BRICKYARD

Winnipeg Telegram—One of the largest brick-making concerns in the north of England, it is learned, is prepared to place a $50,000 plant at an early date in either Winnipeg or Edmonton, whichever location is found the more suitable. The son of the manager of the firm, according to the information given, has been in this country prospecting for nearly a year, and while carrying on his investigations has been employed in Kelly's "yard" at St. Boniface studying local methods. The young man, it is stated, left a few days ago for Edmonton, where he will study the clays and conditions. The ultimate decision will turn on whether the superiority of the clays of Edmonton will outweigh the disadvantage of a long haul to market. The firm interested manufactures every kind of English brick and is said to be the leading one of its kind in the north of England. The embassy in his reports characterizes the western product as an inferior article, and the expectation of the raw enterprise is both to cheapen the price and improve the quality of the staple western brick.

STAR.

(Bulletin Correspondence).

A blizzard occurred here Sunday and Monday and the roads were badly drifted, but traffic was soon resumed.

Mr. Walker has been taken into the Holmes' business, and the sign now reads "Holmes & Walker."

Miss E. Anderson, of Creeford, is the guest of Mrs. A. E. Holmes.

W. G. Alton has resumed bridge work and is putting a large bridge over Beaver Creek, west of Star.

Joe Alton was the choice of the ratepayers at the election held here on the 15th inst. As Mr. Alton has been the road overseer last year we think a better choice could not have been made.

Geo. W. Wiley is endeavoring to obtain signatures to a petition for granting him a license for the Star hotel.

Dr. Strong, dentist of Edmonton, visits Star once a month and holds a "drawing-room" at Dr. Archer's residence.

Mr. Hackett, who has passed the three score and ten years, fell through a trap door into the cellar at Mr. John Campbell's, and although the cellar is quite deep, no bones were broken and the aged lady is recovering from her bad shake-up.

Joe McDermid, household inspector, made an official visit to these parts last week.

New settlers are rapidly filling up the country to the east.

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH.

A very sad occurrence happened at Mr. J. S. Johnston's farm, four miles west of Leduc, on Sunday last about 5:30 p.m., when the three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kedumski was burned to death.

The mother, it appears, was out assisting her father, Mr. M. Wittie, with the work about the farm, the child being alone in the house.

When returning some time afterwards, she was horrified to find the child lying on the floor almost dead, its clothes having been literally burned from its body. The poor little sufferer lingered about three hours—Leduc Record.

NEW PUBLIC SCHOOL BUILDING.

The Public School Board Trying to Solve the Problem of Housing Young Edmonton.

The increasing juvenile population of Edmonton is the standing problem of the school board. For years the board has been adopting expedient after expedient to relieve the immediate over-crowding of the school accommodation, while planning broadly for the future.

The first step in the plan for providing permanent quarters for the school going population was taken some two years since, when the board did new building on Queens avenue was erected at a cost exceeding $30,000. Previous to that time rooms had been rented in various quarters of the town for teaching purposes, and when these scattered classes were gathered into the new building, it was quickly taxed to its limit of capacity. In consequence the old school buildings were utilized and the old Presbyterian church also rented, arranged and turned into class rooms. All these buildings are now crowded, there being eighteen teachers on the staff, each with the maximum number of pupils, totalling 420.

The board is now planning to erect another building similar to the Queens avenue school, on the site of the old school buildings on McKay avenue. The plans are now being prepared for a solid brick, eight room structure, the cost of which is estimated at $35,000. A money by-law to raise this sum will be submitted to the ratepayers at an early date and should it carry, the work will be proceeded with during the summer. Even the new building will only temporarily relieve matters, the number on the rolls now being sufficient to occupy it as soon as completed. The old buildings, if put on another suitable site could then be made to do service to temporarily relieve matters until a third large building can be erected.

The mail which should have arrived at Edmonton on Friday, got in last night. Still there's more to follow.

Voting on the by-law providing for raising $30,000 to extend the electric lighting plant, takes place tomorrow at the council chamber.

An Ottawa dispatch says a company has a charter to build a railway line from Melville to Edmonton via Regina.

A. Little & Co. are increasing the plankton accommodation at their brick yards and expect to increase their product largely this year.

The sparrows, the pests of the Eastern front, have reached Calgary. The birds are abundant and the formation of a sparrow club to exterminate the new arrivals.

L. Moret, of Fort Saskatchewan, is erecting a temporary building to replace the one destroyed in the recent fire. A brick block will be built on the site during the summer.

A Winnipeg dispatch says: "Work will soon start on the fleet of steamers to be built at Prince Albert for the Hudson's Bay company, to ply on the Saskatchewan river."

The police have been visiting the houses on Jasper avenue during the past few days, and as a result the visible area of clean sidewalk has materially increased.

Sunday's special train brought about fifty new settlers for the Edmonton district. Several of these came from England, the balance from the Maritime provinces.

A young Englishman named Enfield was brought into the General Hospital yesterday, having severely cut a foot, while cutting wood a short distance west of town.

D. R. Fraser & Co. have purchased about 250,000 feet of lumber from J. A. Brown, which is now piled on some vacant lots on Fraser avenue.

The Exhibition Association are already making arrangements for the issue of their annual prize list, intending to have it in time for thorough distribution throughout the west.

Inspector Casey, of the N.W.M.P., whose death in Butte City, Montana, was reported in the Bulletin yesterday, was well known in Edmonton, having been in charge of the detachment here some years since.

Engineer Turpin has had the portable steamers out for several days churning out hydrants on the side streets which were found to not work freely. This is probably the first trouble of the kind for the season.
